AT SEA

Sea, sky, expanse. The Indian Ocean stretches to the infinite horizon. Beckoning. Tempting you to explore. Dhoni sails billow and expand, lilted. Drawing you further into the azure beyond.

CRUISING AND BOATING

Sail into the yonder. The Indian Ocean mirroring the sky. Carve through the waters, wind on your face. The groan and creak of a wooden dhoni, the hum of a speedboat as it parts the waves. The lilt and rock of a yacht, cruising into the blue. A dolphin at the bow, glistening in the sunset.

WATER SPORTS

Soar into the heavens, flirt with the sun, parasail billowing behind. Weave through turquoise waves by catamaran, or windsurf away, taming the breeze. A slow paddle by kayak, oars plunged into glittering seas. A Zayak with a window on the underwater world. The beauty of the ocean soaking into your soul.

DHONI

SET SAIL TO INFINITE BLISS

A traditional dhoni takes the indulgent Huvafen Fushi experience to open water. This 65ft vessel lets you sail the Maldives on your own. Exploring reefs by day. Pampering yourself, your partner, by night. The dhoni can be booked with any room, complete with a 24-hour crew.

Below-deck living spaces, cool and quiet. Everything you need: a king bed, wine cellar and an indulgent gourmet minibar. All yours, an endless delight.

Each moment at Huvafen Fushi resonates with beauty, a snapshot of a dream. On the sand or sea. Or cocooned in your own luxurious haven.

Or venture indoors to cooler climes. The Lair awaits with tales of lands afar. A favourite novel. A forgotten classic. A haven of distraction. A world of sweet escapes.

UNDERWATER

“BLISSFUL, BEAUTIFUL AND EXTRA, EXTRA SPECIAL

On the very first evening, I enjoyed a sunset cruise on the traditional Maldivian dhoni hosted by Huvafen Fushi's fantastic general manager Jean-Christophe, his wife and operations director Inaz. So friendly, down-to-earth and welcoming were they that my fellow guests and I felt we'd known each other for years instead of hours!

I wandered over to the beach one evening as someone had mentioned to see the manta rays at sunset. I wasn't quite sure what to expect but was amazed to spy a handful of seriously large rays - literally inches from the shoreline. The resort's marine biologist has been coming every day for years for a fishy treat at tea-time. It was such a fun and wonderful experience being able to feed the rays - just prepare as they flap over your feet and legs and give you a soaking!!

Huvafen has that very special something and is a resort that I would love to return to, time and time again. I fondly think of it as my cherished home from home. ”

FIFTY SHADES OF HUVAFEN

AUSTRALIA'S LUXURY TRAVEL MAGAZINE EDITOR ANDREW CONWAY SPENDS A NIGHT OF FANTASY IN THE PLAYPEN, HUVAFEN FUSHI'S NEW GRAND BEACH PAVILION

It's a check-in like no other. As our handsome young thakuru, Nazeeh, guides us along a secluded sand pathway, through an imposing thatched entrance gate and into a verdant tropical courtyard, our expectations of Huvafen Fushi's new Grand Beach Pavilion are running high.

"Welcome to The PlayPen," he says, smiling like the proverbial Cheshire Cat.

Our jaws start to drop as he escorts us through the expansive open-plan living space, from gourmet kitchen to 12-seat dining table to luxe living room, and out onto a spectacular terrace with an oversize pool, alfresco dining and relaxation decks, an outdoor shower, and a toes-in-the-sand garden fronting the island's impossibly blue coral reef.

Back inside, Nazeeh literally wafts his hand over a state-of-the-art Bang & Olufsen sound system, instantly firing up a chilled house music mix, as he points to the staircase and says simply: "Shall we?"

The word 'wow' doesn't begin to describe upstairs, another vast open-plan chamber-cum-playroom featuring a centrepiece bed, an enormous spa bath with views of the Indian Ocean, a wet area with separate steam room and sauna, a Kardashian-worthy dressing room, and a sunset-facing balcony.

The décor is New York loft-style meets Parisian boudoir with an eclectic mix of classic and contemporary furnishings from bijou to bling that's straight out of the pages of Architectural Digest.

And then, just before leaving, Nazeeh points to a chic Maison Mika gift box placed discretely by the bath. "Enjoy your stay," he says with a mischievous grin, but is gone before we have time to ask him what's in it. A stunning hideaway and the new jewel in the crown of Huvafen Fushi's 44 overwater and beachfront pool bungalows, The PlayPen, a two-storey, 800sqm pavilion, is perfect for guests holidaying as a couple who desire an exclusive domain of their own, complete with 24/7 butler service and a personal chef on call.

Despite putting on our best George and Amal Clooney faces (George is another Huvafen fanatic, or should that be a Huva-fan?), we barely scratch the surface of everything The PlayPen has to offer in an overnight stay.

We naturally imbibe at the cocktail bar, swim in the infinity pool (which lights up a sexy scarlet red at night), laze in the sun-splashed beach pavilion, and wallow in our spa bath. But what (I hear you ask) is in the Maison Mika gift box?

Forget Fifty Shades of Grey. This little goodie bag, filled with potions, lotions and a set of grown-up toys and games that would make your grandmother's hair curl, is the Maldivian version of "let's get this party started."
